Publix Transfers Saenger to Malco, Arkansas Company

M. S. McCord, of Camden, To Direct Local Theaters

GRAND OPENS 2 DAYS

Feature Pictures to Saenger, Grand to Run Friday and Saturday

The Saenger theatre today passed from the control of the Publix-Paramount company, New York, to the Malco Amusement company, an Arkansas concern with operating headquarters at Camden.

Today's deal gives the Malco company control of the theatre situation in Hope. Several years ago this company acquired the Queen, on Elm street, which was then the third picture house of the city. Last spring it purchased the Grand from the F. M. Horton estate and dismantled the Queen.

Lightman's Announcement
M. A. Lightman, of Memphis, president and general manager of the Malco company, in announcing today's deal for the Saenger, said that all feature attractions would be shown there and the Grand will be operated on Friday and Saturday only.

In town today at the conference in the Saenger business office were: Mr. M. S. McCord, of Camden, secretary and assistant general manager of the Malco company; Arthur Cunningham of Shreveport, district manager of the Publix-Paramount company; and Frank Harting, local Publix manager.

The Saenger and Grand will be operated under direct supervision of Mr. McCord, of Camden. The Publix company relinquishes the Saenger Saturday night and the Malco company takes charge with the matinee show Sunday.

Announcement of the policies of the new operators at the Saenger said that the week's feature picture will start at the Sunday matinee performance instead of in the middle of the week, and will hold through Monday and Tuesday. Daily matinees will be restored, and most other features of Publix-Paramount operation will be observed by the Malco company.

Starting at 2 p. m., daily operation will be continuous until 11 p. m., except through the supper hour. Barbecue matinee prices will be offered from 2 to 3 p. m.

The Malco company also announced the signing of a five-year franchise for Paramount pictures.

Malco operates about 30 theatres in 15 cities, in all sections of Arkansas. Malco cities are as follows: Camden, Conway, Clarksville, Fayetteville, Fort Smith, Hope, Jonesboro, Morrilton, North Little Rock, Newport, Paragould, Stuttgart, Smackover, and points near Memphis in Tennessee.

Hope May Secure Farmers Course

This Is One Among Six Arkansas Cities Which May Be Considered

Hope may have a chance to conduct a Farmers' Short Course, one of six cities in Arkansas to be favored by the International Harvester Company, according to announcement made by Kiwanian W. H. Lindsey at the regular Thursday noon meeting of this civic club, at the Barlow Hotel.

While the costs are to be paid by the harvester firm, there will be no direct reference to their products, nor to power farming, according to Mr. Lindsey. Several nationally known speakers on farming and gardening subjects will come for a two-day course, if Hope is one of the six cities selected. It will be held some time in December, but selection of visiting places must be made now.

Club members enthusiastically voted to extend every influence and assist in bringing this short course to Hope. It was explained that the course is a shortened version of the Farmers' Week programs, which are held at the state agricultural school at Fayetteville each July. The club has petitioned the International Harvester Company their full support in making the event a success, and prevailed upon them to bring the course here.

Miss Eleanor Foster, who represented this township as maid in the Watermelon Festival, furnished the entertainment for the occasion of the regular meeting of the club. She sang three popular songs in her usual and appealing manner. She sang "I Must Be Love," "Nobody Cares If I'm Blue," and "Bye-Bye Blues." They were greatly appreciated by the membership. She was accompanied by Mrs. Kate Scott Holland.

Jackson-O'Brine Still Going Strong

Plan To Stay Up at Least One Thousand Hours They Send Word

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Re-crowned refueling endurance champions, Dale (Red) Jackson and Forrest O'Brine, were coasting (down hill) today with each passing hour bringing additional fame and additional fortune.

As the world record was left 21 hours behind the two record fliers sent down the following message: "We are still going strong, grinding off the hours like nobody's business." Approximately 579 hours have elapsed since the two took off on their present flight. Their plane "The Greater St. Louis" is still functioning smoothly and seems as though it is in fine shape to stand the 1000 hour grand which is the goal of Jackson and O'Brine.

The one hundred and thirtieth contact taking up fuel, oil and the breakfast for the boys was made this morning. On this trip many messages of congratulations were taken, including one from Miss Helen Hunter, sister of the Hunter Brothers who held the record until Wednesday morning.

Festival Pageant Saenger Tonight

Entire Cast of 100 Performers Will Take Part Tonight

The stage of the Saenger Theatre is all set for the presentation tonight of the Watermelon Festival Pageant as an extra added feature of the regular show. Mrs. Nell Bush McPherson, said director of this year's pageant, said Thursday morning the scenery and lighting effects available at the Saenger will be an important factor in adding to the beauty of the show, which was previously presented in the open.

The entire original cast of 100 performers will take part in tonight's presentation. The pageant is scheduled to go on about 9 p. m., and will be preceded and followed by an excellent picture program.

"Song of the Flame," an outstanding all-talking production with a cast headed by Bernice Claire, Alexander Gray, Noah Beery and Bert Roach, has been selected as the screen offering. It will be recalled that Miss Claire and Messrs. Gray and Roach were last seen in the musical comedy, "No, No, Nanette." The production is presented entirely in natural color and features several elaborate musical and dance numbers.

A comedy, "The Talkies," burlesques the film industry and is packed with hilarious situations. A timely news-reel rounds out the program.

Proceeds of the show will be turned over to the Watermelon Festival Fund, according to George W. Robinson, chairman of this year's festival.

Wreckage of Plane That Killed 3

These twisted bits of wreckage were all that remained of an airplane that crashed through the top of a huge gas tank at Chicago, killing the pilot and two girl passengers. Aviation experts, summoned as a coroner's jury, are shown here examining the wreckage shortly after it was taken from the water in the bottom of the tank where the three bodies were found.

Flier Confesses Kentucky Bombing

Montgomery Implicates Two or Three Others As Instigators

MURPHYSBORO, Ill., Aug. 14.—(AP)—A confession by Paul Montgomery, 25, aviator, that he was hired by two or three men to pilot his airplane in a bombing raid over the Providence, Ky., coal field early Monday, and that one of the men accompanied him on the trip, was in the hands of Department of Justice and county authorities Wednesday.

State's Attorney Fletcher Lewis said Montgomery had named two men, but their names were withheld pending their arrest. Reports from other official sources were that three men had been implicated.

Montgomery's story, Lewis said, was that after he was hired to go on the bombing raid, he was told that he and members of his family would be killed if he did not carry it out. He said he received no money, but was promised financial reward, the amount not being specified.

The state's attorney said Montgomery confessed that the dynamite bombs dropped on the mining community, but without loss of life or property, were made at the local airport by two men, one of whom took them in a sack and accompanied him when he took off for the 90-mile flight to the mining district before dawn Monday.

Montgomery was quoted as saying that he maneuvered his plane so that none of the bombs would land on any homes or mining properties where any damage would be done or persons injured. He then returned his passenger to the field here.

Authorities said that the bombing was plotted because of the trouble among miners in the Kentucky field.

Lumberman Hurt Fatally In Fight

Renewal of Old Quarrel Results In Death of Manila Man

MANILA, Aug. 14.—Dewey Woods, 35, lumberman, was injured fatally Monday afternoon by Tom Hills, 25, at Steve's Mill, eight miles southwest of Manila. The two men are said to have been on bad terms for some time, Monday their quarrel was renewed, and they began fighting. Hills picked up a stick of wood, it was reported, and struck Woods over the head. Woods suffered two fractures of the skull and a bad bruise on his left shoulder.

The fight occurred at 5. It was 11 before word reached town of the tragedy. When physicians reached the wounded man, he was unconscious. He was brought to Manila in a local ambulance, but died before reaching town. Hills spent the night at the boarding house at the mill site, but came to town early yesterday morning to surrender. He was taken to Blytheville by local officers and placed in the county jail.

Hills has been living with his mother. He is unmarried. Woods is survived by a wife and two small children.

Three Men Slain Over Concessions

Bodies Found Within 300 Yards of One Another In Woods

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Three men were slain last night, victims of a gangland quarrel growing out of a slot machine concession in an amusement park here, police believe.

Sammy Stien (alias Hackle) of Minneapolis, and Frank Coleman of Kansas City, wounded fatally were found last night by General W. F. Ramm, head of the state police bureau, while touring a lonely road near Rose Wood Amusement park.

The third victim was found early today after a searching party was formed. Three hats were found which led police to make a search and finally locate the third victim, who the officers believe is "Butch" Byers of St. Paul, Minn.

Stien, they said, was wanted in connection with the Wilmar, Minn. bank robbery last month in which $142,000 in cash and securities were stolen. He was also wanted in Kansas City for murder.

All three of the bodies were found within a radius of 300 yards and near a small car which was parked near the side of the road.

Creditable Exhibits Planned Despite Drought Conditions

NEW EXHIBIT HALL

Fireworks to Be Feature Every Night During Fair Week

One of the most elaborate fair programs ever seen in Arkansas is being provided for the entertainment of visitors to the annual Southwest Arkansas Fair to be held in this city September 22 to 27 inclusive according to the fair management.

In spite of the prevailing drought conditions, indications point to a creditable array of exhibits in all the departments. Reports from various sections of Southwest Arkansas show that there is an increased interest in the fair this year.

Attractive cash premiums are offered in all departments which include farm and field crops, orchard and truck crops, hay and forage crops, legumes, poultry, livestock, foods and canning, textiles, boys' and girls' club work, school work, floral exhibits and historical exhibits as well as a number of important contests and demonstrations.

The fair management has booked the best program of entertainment and amusement obtainable. Entertainment features include splendid program of free acts each afternoon and night, a program of hippodrome acts each afternoon and night, an elaborate display of fireworks each night, a racing program daily that will include running races, chariot races, relay races, and novelty races and numerous other contests and amusement features. The midway attractions will be furnished by one of America's leading amusement companies and will consist of seven rides and fourteen shows and other attractions.

The first day of the fair has been designated as Aviation day; the second day as Dairy and Poultry Day as well as Music day. The third day as Missouri Pacific day, Louisiana and Arkansas day and Frisco day; the fourth day as Educational day and the fifth day as amusement day. The fair management is arranging appropriate programs for each of these days in addition to the regular daily programs. A number of important aviation events will feature the aviation day program. The feature of the Educational day program will be the annual classic between the A. & M. Mulierides of Magnolia and the Texarkana Junior College Bulldogs. A high school football game will also be played on Education day by teams representing the Magnolia high school and the Hope high school.

The fair grounds will be the scene of much activity during the next five weeks. The new exhibit hall will be completed within the next week or ten days and the fair management will be able to handle the exhibits in the various departments to a much better advantage this year.

Compress Raises Cotton Charges

100 Per Cent Increase Announced Here—Protests Follow at Once

Notice of the doubling of the receiving charge for cotton has been posted here by both the Federal and Union Compress companies, which control most of the compresses in the Middle South.

This action, taken presumably by the compress companies on the ground that they needed more operating revenue, was quickly followed this morning by messages of protest from all over Arkansas to Washington. The chief contention of the protests was that this season is a most inopportune time in which to increase any charges affecting the cotton crop.

T. S. McDavitt & Co. received the following telegram this morning from the Little Rock Cotton Exchange: "T. S. McDavitt & Co., Hope, Ark. We have telegraphed H. T. Harrison, now serving in Washington on the Hoover Drought Commission, care Mayflower Hotel, strongly protesting against Federal Compress rate increase. For your information, receiving charge is raised from 25 cents per bale to 50 cents per bale.

"We request that you also wire direct to Harrison your protest.

"This added charge will total about $250,000 for handling the Arkansas crop, which is an indirect loss to the farmers. LITTLE ROCK COTTON EXCHANGE, by Harry Worley, Vice-President."

Rains On Hoover Drought Meeting

Delegates Attend Meeting In Drizzle of Rain This Morning

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Rain and reports of rain greeted the Hoover drought conference, as the governors of twelve of the drought stricken states met today to demand immediate steps of relief and to offer suggestions that would remedy the situation.

Rain sufficient to break the drought was reported in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Southern Ohio, West Virginia, East Missouri and Southern Iowa.

The meeting in Washington this morning began in a drizzle of rain. The meeting with the President is scheduled for this afternoon.

Governor Caulfield of Missouri, suggested that the Federal aid road money be made available on September 1 instead of January 31, thus putting more money in circulation this fall.

Governor Mill of Iowa, urged the Federal Farm Board to dispose of all surplus feeds in the stricken area. Some system of credit must also be arranged in order for the farmers of the sections to make the 1931 crop.

Showers are predicted tonight or tomorrow in southern and western Kansas, Oklahoma, Southwest Nebraska, Northwest Texas, Southern Missouri, all of Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky, as well as along the Ohio river valley.

The Rights of Children

EVERYBODY has a right to a marble game in his own back yard. And every little girl is entitled to a crooked apple tree under which she may spread her dolls and chairs and dishes and play at keeping house.

But the heritage is being removed. Back yards are going. Freedom to romp and dream is giving way to the god of efficiency.

Approximately one-half of all living accommodations being provided by new construction in cities of the United States are apartments, it is indicated by the U. S. Labor Department's latest study of city building activity. Data for the year of 1929, just made public, show that 48.6 per cent of all families housed in new construction last year moved into apartment type of dwelling. There was a corresponding decrease in "single" houses.

APARTMENTS may be time and labor savers for adults. They may simplify the business of housekeeping but they complicate the duties of home-making, if there are children in the family.

Four walls are not enough for any child. His kingdom lies outside, where the sun shines and the wind blows and his gang waits. But if there is no yard where he may wander and be contented his vision is going to become as dwarfed as a body which does not know the outdoor world.

A child is happier and healthier, more in tune with life, when he watches the seed push through the soil in his own garden when he hears the birds that sing at morning in his own trees; when he has a rope swing from which he can look far into the tree-tops, and a sand pile to make bridges and dams or mud cakes.

A CHILD WHO is reared in an apartment house has no room for pets. A dog would be in the way. He can't bring a stray puppy home from school to warm and feed it now and then. Rabbits are beyond the pall.

He can't feel a sense of beauty stirring in his own strange little heart, just because the roses are pink and fragrant on the bushes and the sweet peas are beginning to grow. He doesn't even have a lawn to sprinkle, with the cool fine spray splashing his bare, tanned feet.

Little boys and girls have a thousand nerves to make them wiggle and not one to help them keep still. Apartment houses which boast of the living facilities which they can pack into a small amount of space, may be convenient for adults but plainly they were not intended for children. A red-blooded, strong-legged child certainly isn't going to be content to listen to the radio and read about others' adventures. He wants to go make some of his own.

THERE ARE other joys that he misses, too. A kitchenette hasn't much room for a cookie jar. It is too crowded for an eager-eyed little figure to sit on a stool and wait for the magic moment when he or she may lick the frosting bowl. Kitchenettes and frosting bowls have little in common.

An apartment doesn't have an attic where a boy or girl may slip away to read through a long afternoon, rain coming down with a steady musical beat, shawws dancing in the corners.

An apartment doesn't instill a sense of pride in a child's breast, when a youngster sees yellow lamps in a little house and knows that it is his house. There isn't much fun in looking at a big brick building and saying you belong some place "up there."

Apartment houses may be convenient for their parents but they are pretty hard on the kids.

The Afghan Raiders

EFFORTS TOWARD the elimination of warfare from the scheme of human existence cannot as yet take into consideration such battles as those which British troops are forced to fight against semi-barbaric hill tribesmen from the Afghan mountains who are attacking at points on the Indian border.

Fighting is the only known means of meeting such a campaign as that which these Afridi tribesmen have inaugurated. The prevention of armed struggle is based upon peaceful consideration of the issues involved in dispute between the parties which be involved in such struggle. But when it comes to such a affair as this, the only issues involved are fanaticism and an inborn love of fighting.

These people consider fighting a necessary part of man's activity. They may suddenly decide to start out fighting, with raiding and looting as their chief objective, and when that decision is made the only thing to do is to fight back. You can't parley with a foe who won't parley.

Great Britain has often been forced to fight border battles of this type and probably will have to fight many more. The only way she can stop there is to meet each campaign with such immediate and effective resistance that the launching of new raids will be discouraged.—Jonesboro Evening Sun.

The Arkansas State Election

GOVERNOR PARNELL'S smashing victory over young Brooks Hays last Tuesday definitely establishes two facts: First, the people of Arkansas are in no mood to tamper with the State Highway Commission; and second, having once embarked on a policy of taxing private incomes, they view with suspicion anyone who would attempt to revoke it.

These two issues destroyed Brooks Hays. He attacked the Highway Commission, by policy and by name; and he accepted the support of anti-income-tax leaders while alleging he would uphold this law. His attack on the millionaire members of the State Highway Commission would have been good politics at the rural polling places, but unfortunately a suspicion as to his stand on the income tax operated against him in the same quarter. In the centers of population and wealth this same view of his income tax policy aided him—and thus we have a partial explanation of the fact that Hays polled a strong vote in the cities but went down to disastrous defeat at the rural boxes.

The surprising fact to be discovered in examining Hays' entire campaign is that he meddled so much with what he later had to apologize for—and let months go by without offering any kind of constructive criticism against an administration that is as open to criticism as any we have had in recent years. The methods by which Hays developed his campaign slowly but surely alienated friends of highway improvement and made a mediocre administration appear tolerable by comparison with the recklessness and dreadful uncertainty of the young gladiator who was stumping the state against it.

Somehow we visualized Hays as a young man always on the verge of making an exceptionally good speech in behalf of common honesty in government, only to be heckled by somebody in the crowd wanting to know what he was going to do with the Highway Commission and the income tax. Edmund Burke himself couldn't have made a convincing speech after the opening announcements and extraneous issues with which Hays burdened his campaign.

The trouble with Hays is that a good deal of water has run under the bridge in the last four years of Arkansas history and Brooks was down there with a two-gallon bucket trying to bail it back.

The highway issue illustrates what we mean. Hays asked us to abandon the appointive State Highway Commission and return to the system by which the people elect the Commission chairman—the position once held by the late Herbert Wilson of this county, and to which Dwight H. Blackwood was elected just before the Commission was made entirely appointive. Hays wanted us to turn back this page of history.

But something has taken place in the last four years that prevents us. For the first time we have succeeded in building highways on a progressive and fairly continuous plan.

The burden of proof which formerly rested on the local citizen to show the state how it might build a new road, is now on the state to show the citizens why it can't build that road.

The burden was almost entirely on the local citizen up to the passage of the Martineau highway legislation. Roads were a political football at Little Rock. When Tom Terral was elected governor in 1924 he recalled having promised to do "something about good roads." In February or March, 1925, he summoned a committee of seventy-five men drawn from every county in the state, to Little Rock; he shut them up in the governor's big reception room, told them to "suggest something," and went out.

Pandemonium broke loose. This writer was "covering" the story for the Arkansas Gazette and The Associated Press. We recall that every man in that assemblage had a highway program, every two men had a joint program, and every half-dozen had a compromise.

They were in trouble within a few minutes and sent for Governor Terral. Tom refused to come, but sent his aide Tom W. Campbell—the same who last Tuesday was annihilated by Senator Robinson. Campbell, pushed into a tight place by his boss, got up and made a speech which to the best of our recollection advocated the construction of a system of state toll roads. Our story is in the files of the Arkansas Gazette of the spring of 1925.

Campbell's speech was a sensation. While no two of the committee of seventy-five had the same highway plan, they all knew that Campbell was wrong. Former Senator Bone of Batesville directed fifteen minutes of crushing remarks at Campbell, the least of which was the observation that the building of state toll roads would automatically cancel federal aid—which had just been recovered after having been lost during the previous administration.

All this was very exciting, humorous, and absurd, in the spring of 1925. Sensible governments don't call together seventy-five men who never saw each other before and ask them to formulate a program of state highways.

Brooks Hays heard that terrible racket in the governor's reception room that day, because he was an assistant attorney-general in the suite around the corner. It seemed to us, listening to Hays' criticism of the State Highway Commission this spring, that he ought to have remembered that other picture five years ago. It seemed to us that all through his campaign he was picking up detail criticism which eventually got him into trouble on fundamental issues. He was more anxious to be governor, we thought, than he was worried over what he might do when he got there.

So—although we didn't advertise the fact in advance—we cast our vote for Parnell; and there appear to have been a lot of folks in Hope and Hempstead county in the same shape as ourselves.—W.

Publication After Death

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 12.—(UP)—According to well founded reports prevalent here, Cardinal Gasparri, former secretary of state to the Pope, is about to write his memoirs, which will run to a big volume.

The cardinal, who was also secretary of state to Pope Benedict XV, lived through all the most important events of Papal history and European diplomacy during the war and post-war period.

It is stated that the Cardinal will leave instructions with his heirs that the memoirs are not to be published until 50 years after his death.

Find Old Paper

WHEATLAND, Ind., Aug. 14.—(UP)—A copy of a newspaper giving an account of the death of Jesse James was found in an old home at Wheatland being razed to make room for a new building. The paper is an issue of the Western Sun of April 14, 1882. It was published in Vincennes.

Hits Young Drivers

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 14.—(UP)—A series of automobile accidents in which drivers under 15 years of age were involved caused Charles M. Armstrong, secretary of state, to call attention to Colorado sheriffs to call governing the age of drivers. Letters were sent out by Armstrong to the sheriff of each county in the state pointing out that it is unlawful for any person under 15 years of age to operate or drive a motor vehicle.

Head For Batting Ram

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 13.—(UP)—The head makes an excellent battering ram, but is expensive when used to battle prohibition agents. Ray Brown has learned. Brown was arrested in a flat where alleged liquor was seized by agents. He resented their intrusion and began to ram the officers head down. Breathless they captured him and charged him with possession, nuisance and assault of federal officers. If convicted, Brown is liable to $7,500.

Seek New Treaty

ATHENS, Aug. 12.—(UP)—On the ground that under the present Bulgaria-Greek trade treaty Greece's imports from Bulgaria are six times as great as her exports to that country numerous representative organizations of Greek business men have requested Venizelos to end this treaty and to negotiate a new one which will insure a more equal exchange of produce between the two countries.

Ice Well Found

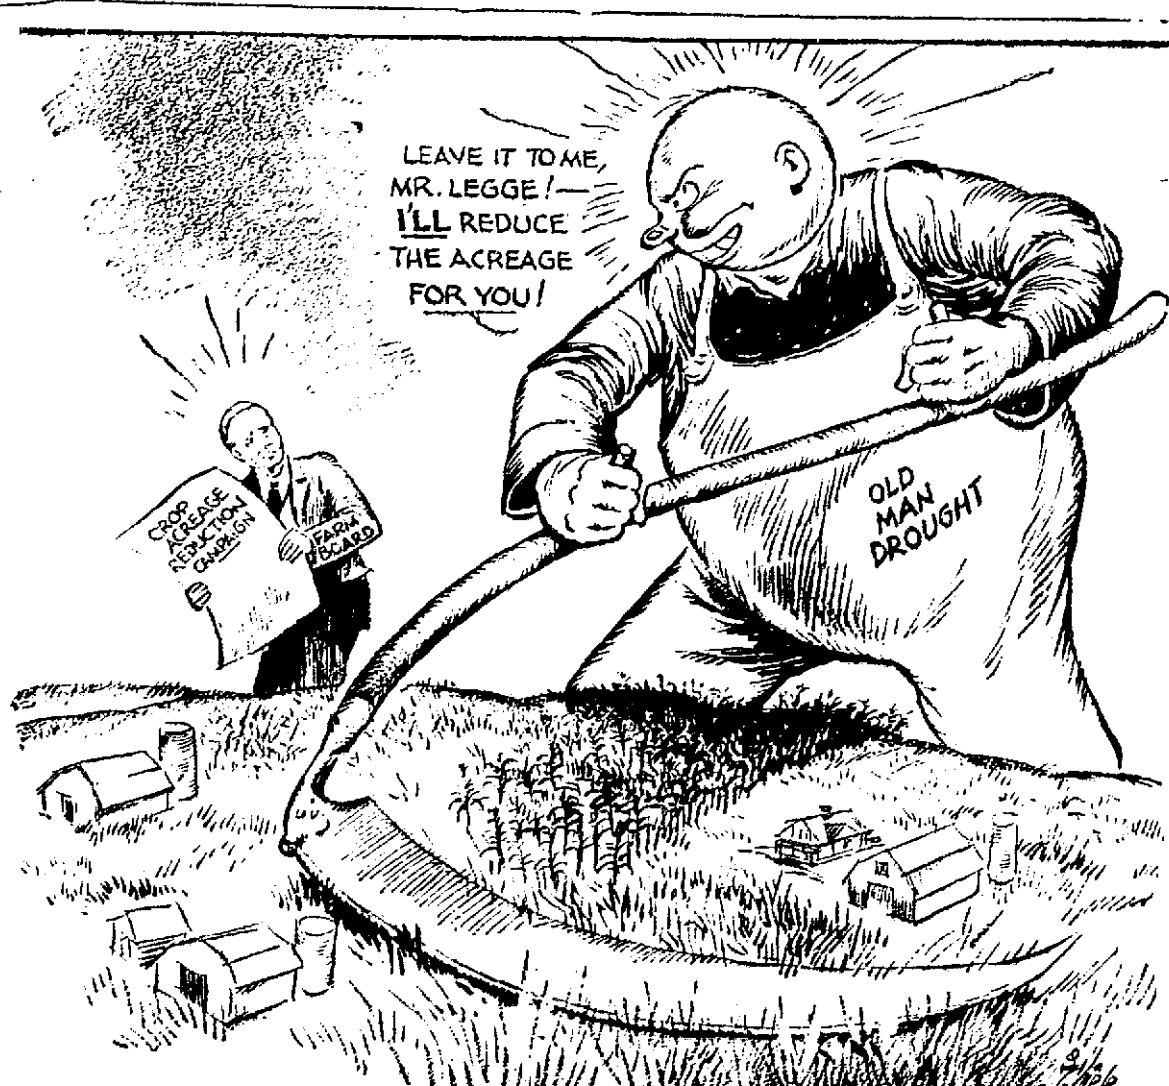

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 13.—(UP)—A natural ice well, 172 feet underground from which crystal clear blocks of ice can be cut in hottest weather is occasioning much interest here. The well is located at the gypsum plaster mill at Black Hawk seven miles north of here. In digging for gypsum at the plant, workmen sunk a shaft at the end of which a large hole was excavated in taking out gypsum. This filled with water to a depth of 8 feet which freezes in summer and is coated with thick ice.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NIA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — For several years the leaders of the Communist party in Moscow have been discouraged at the failure of their followers in The United States to make any progress. Their attitude toward the American Communist has even tended to become contemptuous.

But they may feel happier now because the American Communist have been stimulated to new efforts.

And one need not be surprised to read of big tributes in the Red Square to three brave American patriots, Seymour Lowman, Matthew Wolf and Hamilton Fish, who supplied the stimulus. That suggestion is made in all seriousness because the efforts of this trio have inspired the Communists in this country to consolidate, organize and holler for recruits to fight in the great war which they profess to believe the "bosses" are about to force upon them.

How They Did It

Probably that isn't anywhere near as much to worry about as is the threatened loss of American exports to the Soviet, but there are many timid persons who don't like to see the Communists stimulated and they are likely to be sore at Mr. Lowman, Mr. Wolf and Mr. Fish.

Mr. Lowman is the assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of customs who dreamed the one night that Russia had embarked on a "paganic" campaign to wreck American industry by exporting goods to us. Next day he announced that there was no longer any doubt about it; that we were facing, in effect, a declaration of war. So there would be an embargo on Russian pigwood and matches and lumber, and probably on manganese and other Russian products. Mr. Lowman is likely to say something remarkable any time he opens his mouth, but this was as remarkable as anything he had ever said.

Mr. Wolf is only the third vice president of the American Federation of Labor, but he makes more noise than the president and all the other vice presidents combined, chiefly about Communism. He has been shouting for a general embargo on imports from Russia. Some day an enterprising reporter will ask Mr. Wolf if he happens to know anything about problems of American labor.

Mr. Fish is chairman of the congressional committee which has been investigating Communists and the impartial nature of his investigation has been indicated by his violent utterances, radio and otherwise. The Fish committee recently unearthed the appalling testimony of a nervous old gentleman that Communist kids in summer camps had been saying, "Damn it, pass the bread!"

There may be more important results after all this fuss, such as a new clamp in American exports or federal legislation against Communists, but the chief effect thus far has been to stir up the Reds. The next step can only be a trade blockade, and following that, war—imperialist war for the overthrow of the first workers' government! hollers the Communist newspaper, the Daily Worker.

HOOKS SLIDES

by William Braucher

Baseball has been barred from night baseball for many long years, of course, but with night baseball we are likely to have its return in a modified form. In a recent night game in Los Angeles, for instance, the "game" was very heavy. It was so heavy, in fact, that the pitcher had to use a new ball after every grounder. We leave to your imagination a night baseball game on a foggy evening. If Los Angeles has fog. Well, we'll see.

Alvis Laughs
Not a little steam has been generated by far-western sports writers seeking to have Young Jack Thompson risk his welterweight championship against Young Corbett III. It so happens that Young Corbett III has licked Young Jack plenty, but their last bout was fought over the weight. Magnificent Larry White offered $40,000 to promoter Jack Doyle at Los Angeles, as a guarantee to Thompson, but Ray Alvis, manager of Thompson, just laughed. Mr. Alvis unburdened himself of the crack that Thompson will have whippers down to his knees before he ever boxes Corbett for the championship. It all makes us very sad.

Some left-handers are nice people, put the people leading the American league in the greatest number of victories are Ted Lyons of the White Sox and Wes Ferrell of the Indians, both of whom catch the ball in their left hands. In the National league, Brame, Malone, Krummer, Red Lucas, Seibold and Root are leading in the number of games won—and they're all right-handers. Of course, there are more right-handers than there are left-handers.

Well! Can You Ty That!
Cobb says baseball is not the game she used to be ten years ago and that the people are not following the game. Quite so, quite so, and that's probably the reason all attendance records are being broken this year.

Victim of Many Accidents Is In Hospital

CABOT, Aug. 14.—F. H. Berry, employee of the Newell Contracting Company, who is building the highway through Cabot, was taken to the General Hospital in a See & Company ambulance, after being backed into by a car and suffering painful injuries to the back and ribs. Berry had been at work three days after a sojourn of several weeks in a hospital, where he was treated for a dislocation of the back caused by being struck by a truck driven by a telephone lineman. Before this accident Berry was riding to work standing on one of the construction company's truck when the driver hit a rough place in the road, which threw Berry onto the highway, disabling him for several weeks.

Hard Luck Story Wins

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 14.—A sick wife, six children and the fact that he was 61 years old earned Juan Escobedo Trujillo, "another chance" when brought before Judge Helmick in district court for violating the national prohibition law. He was given a 90-day suspended sentence.

Kamm, $100,000 Boy, May Be Disposed of By Sox Next Spring

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Willie Kamm, the $100,000 White Sox third baseman, may be placed on the trading block when the David Harmons of the American league open their seasonal raids on the player mart next spring.

For Kamm is dissatisfied with the White Sox and Manager Donie Bush is dissatisfied with Kamm. The mutual dissatisfaction apparently had its inception at the start of the 1930 season when Bush abolished Kamm's team captaincy and the customary $600 that went with it.

Kamm immediately fell into a bunting and fielding slump and Bush finally decided he was losing and benched him. At the start of the August road trip, Kamm was left behind. Kamm was brought to the White Sox in 1923 in one of the big deals of baseball history. He was purchased from the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast league for cash and players reported to involve $100,000 or more. He became a regular from the first day in camp and remained so until his disagreement with Bush. Although he led third basemen of the American league in fielding perfection in 1928 and 1929, his bat has been worth but an average of 28.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
THE Pirates haven't been packing them in so well at home, but Jewel Ems will have another chance as manager next year. . . . In the American Association, Kansas City and Toledo are said to be in the lead this year. . . . Herb Pennock never has been chased from the ball park in 19 years of pitching. . . . Says Herb, "It's funny how ball players kick grounders, miss flies and throw to the wrong base, and then call an umpire a rap because he misses a fraction of an inch or a second." . . . American League ball players average younger in age than National Leaguers. . . . but quite a few National Leaguers we know can perform some very, very youthful stunts. . . . Judge Landis' best shot in golf is his fourth putt.

Will's Wild Words
GEORGE SISLER stole home in a game the other day with Brooklyn and Umpire Jorda called him out. Will McKechnie sprayed Mr. Jorda with choice words but it availed him nothing. It was all very beautiful and symbolic, our Boston operatives inform us.

Shires, Shires & Shires
IT'S a shame to keep a .300 hitter on the bench, "Art Shires told Manager Walter Johnson the other day. The .300 hitter Mr. Shires had in mind was Mr. Art Shires, and has told Mr. Shires that he wants to play in the outfield.

Young Corbett Still Hunts Title— But He's Licked Two Champions!

Young Corbett III, Fresno southpaw, still searches for the welterweight title, after battering two champions, Young Jack Thompson and Jackie Fields.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The gong clangs out its notice that the tenth round is over.

The referee raises the hand of the southpaw fighter. Several thousand Italian countrymen of Young Corbett III below into the sky.

And so it has gone on here for years. From an obscure preliminary boy, Young Corbett of Fresno has punched his way to the title of "uncrowned welterweight champion of the world."

The 24-year-old Italian has climaxed a brilliant career by handing Young Jack Thompson, Oakland negro welterweight king, a fearful beating in ten rounds. Thompson saved his crown by the technicality of forcing Corbett to come in a pound and a half overweight.

Less than five months before, also in a San Francisco ring, Corbett won a ten-round decision over Jackie Fields, then ruler of the 147-pound division. It, too, was an over-weight match.

The Fresno southpaw's record is one of the remarkable of the boxing game. He started at the age of 17 years and in 103 bouts, scored 43 knockouts. Since 1925 he lost two decisions to Dominick McCarthy and Sammy Baker, the last one in 1928. Five opponents held him to draws.

He never has been knocked out and has been on the floor but once, in 1928 when Jack Thompson dropped him momentarily. He knocked out Eddie Roberts after the latter had dumped the then welterweight champion, Joe Dundee, for the full count.

Corbett's efforts at title matches have been one futile chase after another.

Relief From Curse of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the laxative, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

The Hollywood Story

COPYRIGHT 1930 by NEA SERVICE Inc. by ERNEST LYNN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
DAN RORIMER, Hollywood scenario writer and former New York newspaper man, meets ANNE WINTER, who has come from Tulsa, Okla., to seek extra work. Dan is with Continental Pictures, and is not very satisfied with what he is doing. Anna gets extra work at Grand United studios. She goes to live with two other actresses, MONA MORRISON and EVA HARLEY. GARRY SLOAN, famous director, has noticed Anne Winter. He gives her a "bit" in a picture. Dan, not liking Sloan, although he has not actually met him, is a bit apprehensive. The casting director at Grand United calls Anne up and tells her there may be a chance for her in a screen test. Anna promises her a screen test. Anne elatedly tells this to Rorimer, who is more disconcerted than ever at Continental. Rorimer, who is living with PAUL COLLIER, writes a daily movie column for a string of newspapers, tells Collier that he has torn up his contract with Continental. And he tells him about Anna's forthcoming screen test, and Collier has news about Garry Sloan.

"WHAT about Garry Sloan?" Rorimer asked.

"I understand his wife got her divorce," Collier lit a cigarette, blew smoke toward the ceiling. "I just heard it today."

Dan, reclining in his chair with his arms folded and his eyes half shut, wanted to know, without looking at Collier, what Sloan was going to do now. "Marry Sylvia Patterson?"

Paul shrugged. "Search me."

Dan said, thoughtfully: "What kind of a bird is this Sloan, anyway? You know him, don't you?"

"Sure, I know him. He's a swell director, all right; he also has a knack of keeping his name in the papers."

"Johnny Riddle said he had a swell head."

Paul Collier said, hesitantly, that he supposed that was true. "Only he's not a snob, Dan. It's just that he's got a great opinion of himself. The man's an artist—and no getting away from it. And he's got all the temperament that goes with it. Sloan thinks that without a doubt he's the greatest director in the business and I'm not so sure that he isn't."

"I suppose so," Dan said, getting to his feet. "I'm going to bed."

DURING the next few days Dan saw Adamson only once. Then it was in the hallway outside of Rorimer's office, and Adamson, who was walking past with Gregg, the head of the scenario department, nodded shortly and unsmilingly and went on. The studio manager was dark and heavy and abrupt, and Dan had never seen him without a cigar in his mouth, save at luncheon.

Rorimer felt a little foolish, remembering his tempestuous outburst in Adamson's office. Adamson and Gregg, he thought resentfully, probably were discussing him now. Well, Gregg would be an ally, Gregg was all right.

That afternoon Gregg came to see him in his office. He said without preliminary: "I understand you flew off the handle the other day. What's the matter?"

Plenty, Dan assured him, and Gregg gave him a patient smile. Dan wondered how often Gregg's patience neared the breaking point, having Adamson forever to contend with.

"You don't want to let like that, Rorimer. Take it easy. Your stuff's good. I'm not kidding, am I?"

Dan shook his head, and Gregg, sitting down on the edge of his desk, gave him a friendly lecture. At the end of it he put his hand on Dan's shoulder and told him he wouldn't do her any harm either, things more pleasant.

"By the way, you weren't thinking of trying to go over to some other outfit, were you?"

Rorimer thought: "Adamson's trying to find that out." He said, "As long as I'm under contract here it's entirely up to Continental how long I stay."

Gregg smiled a little sheepishly and departed.

Sometime later there was a telephone call from Martin Collins. The director told Dan he was giving a housewarming in his new home in Beverly Hills. "And you're invited. Bring your own girl, or try to grab one off at the party; suits me either way. . . . How's things at Continental?"

"Not so hot," Dan said. "You'd better come over to a real studio and go to work. They're actually human over here. How is 'Grim Holiday' doing? I beg your pardon—'Passion's Price'."

That night Adamson called and told him that the picture was a lot of old worn-out titles over here that he might use when he runs out of those original ideas of his.

Collins was laughing, but his voice held an edge of sarcasm. Dan smiled, recalling Collins' version of his farewell session with Adamson, and said that the picture was doing fairly well. "But it's not breaking any box-office records that vacy around this joint?" he demanded, and Dan told him to shut up.

"You've got a date this evening," he announced.

"Oh, yeah? What are you, any way—my social secretary?"

"We're taking Eva and Mona out. Hurry up and clear out of here."

"What's the matter?" Collier grinned. "Was Anne dated up? Better watch your step, my boy. Competition's pretty stiff in this town."

"That's the way I like it," said Rorimer.

"Yes you do!" Collier rubbed his chin. "Now I've got to shave again," he complained.

They went that evening for a drive that ended at a little roadhouse where strange-sounding Russian dishes were served by waiters in picturesque Russian costumes, and a balalaika orchestra furnished slow and plaintive music. Only one of their times was a dance number, and that was a waltz.

"Who suggested this place, anyhow?" Rorimer wanted to know. "Was it you, Mona?"

"Don't look at me like that," Mona said. "It wasn't me."

Nobody, it turned out, was willing to take the blame. None of them had been there before; it had looked picturesque as they drove past, and by common consent they had gone in.

MONA said, "Gee whiz! I'd like to dance."

"How about you, Eva?" Collier asked, and Eva smiled and nodded.

"Well, listen," Paul said. "I've got an idea. We'll all go down town and go to one of those public dance halls." He grinned and said he knew a "swell place."

"Thirty-five cents admission," he intoned in a side-show barker's voice, "entitles you to four hours of dancing, a buffet supper and a girl-show."

"No foolin'," he added. "Talk about your good clean fun!"

"Sold!" cried Mona, pushing back her chair, and Dan, turning to Collier, asked him if he meant it.

"Why not?" Paul demanded. "Only one thing," he admonished Dan. "Don't try to take a girl away from a sailor or you'll have to fight the whole fleet."

On the way to Los Angeles Eva rode in the front seat with Dan, and Paul and Mona sat in the rumble. Mona's laughing, happy chatter was an incessant accompaniment to the song of motor and tires, and Eva as usual was silent until he began to make conversation.

There was a loud squeal of laughter at one of Paul Collier's wise cracks. Looking at Eva, Dan remarked her indulgent smile and his mind went back to the day they had eaten luncheon together at the Continental lot and Eva's affection for the little red-headed Mona had been revealed.

"She's a grand little person, Eva," he said, and when she nodded he said, "I don't blame you for being crazy about her."

And Eva nodded again. "Mona's father and mother are dead," she said presently. "Did you know that?"

Dan said thoughtfully: "You'd never think she had a trouble in the world."

"Well, she's had plenty," Eva's voice was harsh. Dan thought, as he had often thought before, that Eva Harley reminded him of the fragile heroine of an Ibsen play, Eva had known trouble—real trouble. Of that he was sure.

Neighbors Quarrel,
One Seriously HurtWeilder of Gun In Jail
Awaiting Outcome of His Victim

PARAGOULD, Aug. 14.—Wayne Dill, 18, living three miles southwest of Hector, Clay county, is in jail at Piggott awaiting a preliminary hearing following his arrest at Marmaduke Tuesday in connection with shooting and seriously wounding of Willie Williams, 50, farmer of the same community.

Sheriff Len Waldrum and Deputy Sheriff John Grooms and Billy Crowley of this city went to the scene of the shooting. Reports are that the trouble started over a dog and a remark that Williams made about Dill's father. Williams is reported to have slapped Dill about a week ago. Yesterday afternoon, reports say, Dill slipped up within 60 yards of where Williams was sitting on the back porch of his home and fired a shot-gun at him. 27 shot hitting their mark, three in his forehead and the remainder in his leg. Dill probably will be arraigned before a Clay county justice of the peace as soon as Williams recovers sufficiently from his wounds. His condition is reported to be painful, but favorable for his recovery.

Swindle Attempt
Seen in Kern CaseSt. Louis Police Chief
Tells of Wallet Game
at Toledo, Ohio

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 14.—Chief of Police Gerk said Wednesday he had learned from "a reliable source" that Charles Kern, wealthy retired bakery executive, found a wallet purported to contain $900,000 in a Toledo (O.) hotel and that when the owner reclaimed it, he offered to let Kern and a companion in on a deal that would net a "huge profit."

Mr. and Mrs. Kern returned to their home here early Wednesday after causing a police furore by getting off a train on which they were traveling to Toledo at Defiance, Ohio. They disappeared with two strange men.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat said it had information that Mr. and Mrs. Kern brought back a $70,000 bank treasurer's check which they obtained before leaving here Monday night to "close a deal." The Kerns, however, refused to say whether the deal had been closed. Mrs. Kern told reporters "It's none of your business."

Gerk said Kern was in a Toledo hotel lobby last week with another man when Kern saw a pocketbook lying at his feet. He was about to examine it when a third man stepped up and claimed it.

The men confided that the pocketbook contained $900,000 and offered Kern and his companion a reward of $1,000 which was declined.

The owner then told Kern and his companion he had a deal pending that would net "a huge profit." The man out of gratitude agreed to let the two in on it.

Texas Farmer Found
Slain in Back Yard

TAFT, Texas, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Charles Hassold, 65-year-old farmer, was found dead in the back yard of his home here Wednesday with his throat cut and a butcher knife by his side. Mrs. Hassold was in a hospital with her right hand shot off and four Mexicans, whose names were not known, were slightly wounded by shooting.

Mrs. Hassold received several gunshot wounds on her body. She told officers she had an argument with her husband. She said she ran into a Mexican house on the premises and that as she opened the door Hassold shot through the opening, bird shot striking her and four Mexicans.

Because She Didn't Win First Prize

Well, it's enough to make even a "better baby" cry! A lot of prizes were being passed around at that Milwaukee, Wis., baby show the other day, and did Patricia Ann Hanlon win the first prize? No—just the second prize! And here you see her registering extreme disapproval of the show, the judges, the awards and the world in general.

Famed Killer Has "Double"

marksmanship he joined a circus as "Deadshot Dick."

Kills Two, Gives Up

His marksmanship proved responsible for his two killings in Kingsport, Tenn., several years ago. Encountered by five officers who sought to arrest him for the murder of a deputy sheriff in Mississippi, Kinzie shot them as fast as they appeared from three directions, killing two. He gave up and, after being sentenced to hang, made a spectacular escape.

Two days before he was captured in Texarkana, Ark., by Sheriff Lillie Barber, he had killed two brothers, whom he said had "hurt his feelings." Mrs. Barber had taken her husband's place as sheriff after his death.

Now Kinzie is serving out a 99-year sentence. And while his double is entertaining experts in criminology and sociology with voluble episodes from his life, the real killer declares: "All that stuff about me is just a lot of bunk. The truth has never been printed. I haven't told anybody about it. I'm not going to either."

No Martial Law For
Louisiana TownLong Denies He Will Call
Militia To Stop
Gambling

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A report published by the New Orleans Item that Gov. Huey P. Long would place New Orleans and its area under martial law to suppress gambling in a renewal of his political fight against the old regular Democratic organization of this city, brought from the governor, a candidate for the United States Senate, the statement that "there is no immediate intention of any call of the militia."

But in his statement, Long said that vice conditions which he reported in New Orleans "being in effect, something will have to be done in New Orleans."

The report of military action gained ground after Attorney General Percy Saint, a political foe of the governor, last night under the threat of instituting impeachment proceedings against local authorities in St. Bernard and Jefferson parishes had closed gambling houses operating in those parishes.

"The New Orleans area vice situation received my attention about a year ago," said Governor Long. "I raided in some parishes around here and threatened to come into the city with the militia at the time."

"During the past week, so many complaints have come about conditions in New Orleans that I have had a squad investigating. They say they counted 42 gambling dives in four blocks between the Roosevelt and St. Charles hotels, starting on Canal street and winding up on St. Charles."

As to St. Bernard and Jefferson, I have heard that there has been a house operating in Jefferson off and on and one in St. Bernard, but that the New Orleans competition was so serious that they had practically closed them up and put them out of business."

helps make Long Distance like a local call

A vest-pocket will hold it.

How would you like to pick up your telephone and, almost as quickly as on a local call, get in touch with friends, relatives, business associates, a hundred...two hundred...miles away?

It's easy. All you have to do is give the number of the out-of-town telephone you are calling.

Knowing the number saves the operator the time of looking it up in the directory, and enables her in most cases to ring the telephone almost as quickly as if it were in your own town.

To make it easy for you to use this speedy method, we will supply you, if you wish, with an "out-of-town number book," listing the names and addresses of your out-of-town friends, relatives, business associates, and telling you how much it will cost to talk for three minutes to each.

THIS BOOKLET IS FREE

To obtain one, simply write on the coupon the names and addresses of three or more persons in other cities whose telephone numbers you would like to keep handy. Then mail or bring the list to the office of the telephone company.
